UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF DELAWARE

J-SQUARED TECHNOLOGIES, INC.; and J-SQUARED TECHNOLOGIES

vs.
MOTOROLA, INC., }
Defendant. }
C.A. No. 04-CV-960-SLR

DEFENDANT'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF J-SQUARED TECHNOLOGIES, INC.'S FIRST SET OF INTERROGATORIES

Defendant Motorola, Inc., hereby answers Plaintiff J-Squared Technologies Inc.'s ("JST") First Set of Interrogatories as follows:

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. Motorola objects to all interrogatories to the extent they are overbroad, vague, ambiguous, unduly burdensome, irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation, or not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Motorola has attempted to answer each interrogatory based on a reasonable interpretation of the information requested and has specifically stated objections in response to particular interrogatories. But to the extent Motorola and JST subsequently differ in their interpretations of what the interrogatories requested, Motorola hereby reserves all rights to object to JST's interpretation on the grounds stated in this general objection.

2. Motorola objects to all interrogatories to the extent they ask for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege. If any privileged information is inadvertently produced in response to Plaintiff's interrogatories, there shall be no waiver of Motorola's right to assert these privileges.

3. Each of the foregoing objections is hereby incorporated in each and every one of the following responses to JST's First Set of Interrogatories, whether or not it is specifically identified.

OBJECTIONS TO DEFINITIONS AND INSTRUCTIONS

1. Motorola objects to Plaintiff's definition of "documents" in Definition number 4 as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and to the extent that it asks for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege.

RESPONSES TO INTERROGATORIES

1. Identify the person(s) answering these interrogatories by stating their name(s), position with Motorola (if applicable) and addresses.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this interrogatory because it asks for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege. Motorola has provided a detailed description of persons it believes has discoverable information in its Rule 26 Initial Disclosure Statement.

2. Identify and describe all grounds for your purported decision not to renew JST's MRA.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this interrogatory as irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Subject to and without waiving these objections, as detailed in Motorola's letter dated February 26, 2004 from Mr. Dana Huth, the Vice President of Worldwide Sales & Market Development, to Mr. Jeff Gibson, Motorola's Manufacturing Agreement ("the MRA") with JST expired on December 4, 2003 by its express terms. The MRA specifically stated that renewal could only occur through a writing signed by both parties. (See MRA ¶ 7.1.) Neither Motorola nor JST signed such a writing. While no reason is required to justify Motorola's decision not to renew JST's contract, Motorola concluded it was not in its best interest to seek to renew the MRA after it expired. See also the objections and response to interrogatory number 3.

3. Identify and describe all grounds for your decision to terminate or not renew all or substantially all of the MRAs with Motorola's manufacturer representatives in February 2004.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this interrogatory as irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Without waiving these objections, Motorola reviewed the progress of the manufacturers' representatives program and determined that it was not performing as well as anticipated. In particular, the majority of the representatives were not meeting their contractual performance requirements. Accordingly, Motorola decided that upon the expiration of the MRAs, it would not enter into new contracts or otherwise continue the program. In February 2004, Motorola notified the manufacturers' representatives that it would not renew the MRAs, and the MRAs of those representatives that were not meeting the contractual performance requirements were terminated as allowed by the MRAs. To the extent this interrogatory seeks information regarding JST, see also Motorola's response to interrogatory number 2.

4. Identify and describe all representations as to the durational aspects of the MRAs you made to any or all manufacturer representatives at the meeting in Boston, Massachusetts in September 2003.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this request as vague and ambiguous. Subject to and without waiving these objections, Motorola is not aware of any representations as to the durational aspects of the MRAs made at the meeting in Boston, Massachusetts in September 2003.

5. Identify and describe all representations as to the profitability (return on investment) of the MRAs you made to any or all manufacturer representatives at the meeting in Boston, Massachusetts in September 2003.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this request as vague and ambiguous. Subject to and without waiving these objections, Motorola is not aware of any representations as to the profitability (return on investment) of the MRAs made at the meeting in Boston, Massachusetts in September 2003.

6. Identify and describe all representations you made to the (sic) any or all manufacturer representatives at the meeting in Boston, Massachusetts in September 2003 as to the integration of the manufacturer representatives into the MECCG business model through the MRAs.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this request as vague and ambiguous. Subject to and without waiving these objections, Motorola is not aware of any representations as to the integration of the manufacturing representatives into the MECCG business model through the MRAs made at the meeting in Boston, Massachusetts in September 2003.

7. Identify and describe all representations you made to any or all manufacturer representatives during the December 2003 meeting referenced at paragraph 40 of your Answer to Plaintiffs' Complaint.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this request as misleading, vague, and ambiguous. Subject to and without waiving these objections, paragraph 40 of Motorola's Answer and of JST's Complaint refers only to discussions between the parties. Accordingly, Motorola is not aware of any “meeting” as stated in this interrogatory.

8. Identify and describe any and all conclusions drawn from your “evaluation” and/or “analysis” of JST’s performance under its MRA as you described in the Declaration of Julie Blair at paragraphs 9 and 11.

ANSWER: Motorola concluded that the Agreement had expired and that it was not in Motorola’s best interest to renew the Agreement thereafter. See also objections and responses to interrogatory numbers 2 and 3.

9. Identify, quantify and substantiate the value of MECCG in the two quarters immediately preceding the termination or non-renewal of the MRAs and the two quarters immediately following the termination or non-renewal of the MRAs.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this interrogatory as overbroad, vague, ambiguous, unduly burdensome, irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation, and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

10. Identify and describe the job functions of all Motorola employees who worked with or for MECCG in any capacity such that they would establish, evaluate or discharge the manufacturer representatives’ performance obligations under the MRAs.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this interrogatory as overbroad, vague, ambiguous, unduly burdensome, irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation, and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. 11. Identify all manufacturer representatives that worked with or for MECCG in North America from 2001 until Motorola decided to terminate or not renew the MRAs.

ANSWER: Motorola objects to this interrogatory as overbroad, irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation, and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Subject to and without waiving these objections, Motorola entered into a MRA with JST on December 5, 2002. That MRA expired by its terms one year later, on December 4, 2003. (See MRA ¶ 7.1.).

12. State any and all facts or information which support the allegations contained in paragraph 93 of your Answer as they relate to the defense of contributory negligence.

ANSWER: JST failed to renew its MRA in writing as required by that agreement.

13. State any and all facts or information which support the allegations contained in paragraph 93 of your Answer as they relate to the defense of failure of consideration.

ANSWER: See response to interrogatory number 12.

14. State any and all facts or information which support the allegations contained in paragraph 93 of your Answer as they relate to the defense of the comparative fault.

ANSWER: See response to interrogatory number 12.

15. State any and all facts or information which support the allegations contained in paragraph 93 of your Answer as they relate to the defense of estoppel.

16. State any and all facts or information which support the allegations contained in paragraph 93 of your Answer as they relate to the defense of waiver.

ANSWER: See response to interrogatory number 12.

17. State any and all facts or information which support the allegations contained in paragraph 93 of your Answer as they relate to the defense of offset.

ANSWER: Motorola has already paid all commission owed. These payments offset any damages claimed by JST.

18. Identify by name and address each fact witness you intend to call at the time of trial and for each witness state the substance of his or her expected testimony.

ANSWER: Motorola has not yet selected the witnesses it intends to call at trial. However, Motorola may call any of the persons listed in its Responses to JST's First Set of Interrogatories, any of the persons listed in its Rule 26(a) Initial Disclosure Statement, or any of the persons listed in JST's Rule 26(a) Initial Disclosure Statement, and Motorola reserves the right to identify others as they become known.

19. Identify each document or exhibit you intend to use or introduce into evidence at trial.

PLAINTIFF J-SQUARED TECHNOLOGIES, INC.'S FIRST SET OF INTERROGATORIES

Defendant Motorola, Inc., hereby supplements its answers to Plaintiff J-Squared Technologies Inc.'s ("JST") First Set of Interrogatories as follows:

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. Motorola objects to all interrogatories to the extent they are overbroad, vague, ambiguous, unduly burdensome, irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation, or not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Motorola has attempted to answer each interrogatory based on a reasonable interpretation of the information requested and has specifically stated objections in response to particular interrogatories. But to the extent Motorola and JST subsequently differ in their interpretations of what the interrogatories requested, Motorola hereby reserves all rights to object to JST's interpretation on the grounds stated in this general objection.

2. Motorola objects to all interrogatories to the extent they ask for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege. If any privileged information is inadvertently produced in response to Plaintiff's interrogatories, there shall be no waiver of Motorola's right to assert these privileges.

3. Each of the foregoing objections is hereby incorporated in each and every one of the following responses to JST's First Set of Interrogatories, whether or not it is specifically identified.

OBJECTIONS TO DEFINITIONS AND INSTRUCTIONS

1. Motorola objects to Plaintiff's definition of "documents" in Definition number 4 as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and to the extent that it asks for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege.

RESPONSES TO INTERROGATORIES

9. Identify, quantify and substantiate the value of MECCG in the two quarters immediately preceding the termination or non-renewal of the MRAs and the two quarters immediately following the termination or non-renewal of the MRAs.

DEFENDANT'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF J-SQUARED TECHNOLOGIES (OREGON), INC.'S FIRST SET OF INTERROGATORIES

Defendant Motorola, Inc., hereby answers Plaintiff J-Squared Technologies (Oregon), Inc.'s ("JSO") First Set of Interrogatories as follows:

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. Motorola objects to all interrogatories to the extent they are overbroad, vague, ambiguous, unduly burdensome, irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation, or not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Motorola has attempted to answer each interrogatory based on a reasonable interpretation of the information requested and has specifically stated objections in response to particular interrogatories. But to the extent Motorola and JSO subsequently differ in their interpretations of what the interrogatories requested, Motorola hereby reserves all rights to object to JSO's interpretation on the grounds stated in this general objection.

2. Motorola objects to all interrogatories to the extent they ask for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege. If any privileged information is inadvertently produced in response to JSO's interrogatories, there shall be no waiver of Motorola's right to assert these privileges.

3. Each of the foregoing objections is hereby incorporated in each and every one of the following responses to JSO's First Set of Interrogatories, whether or not it is specifically identified.

OBJECTIONS TO DEFINITIONS AND INSTRUCTIONS

1. Motorola objects to Plaintiff's definition of "documents" in Definition number 4 as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and to the extent that it asks for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege.

RESPONSES TO INTERROGATORIES

1. Identify and specifically describe all grounds for your purported decision to terminate JSO's MRA.

ANSWER: As detailed in Motorola's letter dated February 26, 2004 from Mr. Dana Huth, the Vice President of Worldwide Sales & Market Development, to Mr. Jeff Gibson, Motorola based its decision to terminate on JSO's failure to meet the performance standards delineated in Exhibit 4 to the Manufacturer's Representative Agreement between Motorola Computer Group and JSO (the "Agreement"). Motorola based its termination on the language of the parties' Agreement. See also objections and response to Interrogatory number 2.

2. Identify and describe any and all conclusions drawn from your "evaluation" and/or "analysis" of JSO's performance under its MRA as you described in the Declaration of Julie Blair at paragraphs 9 and 11.

ANSWER: Motorola concluded that JSO failed to meet its quotas for uncommitted, committed, and design win accounts as set forth in the graph on page two of Exhibit 4 to the Agreement, which depicts the annual and quarterly quotas for uncommitted, committed, and design win business. The annual quota for uncommitted business was 25 accounts, and the quarterly quota was either three, six, or eight accounts. By the end of the third quarter, JSO should have obtained 11 uncommitted accounts, but had obtained only nine.

The annual quota for committed business was eight accounts, and the quarterly quota was either one, two, or three. By the end of the third quarter, JSO should have obtained three committed accounts, but had obtained none.

The annual quota for design wins was three accounts, and the quarterly quota was one account. By the end of the third quarter, JSO should have obtained one design win, but failed to do so.

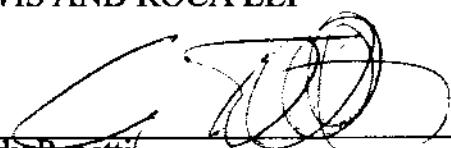

Also, JSO failed to meet the Territorial Development Requirement by not participating in/promoting a minimum of four Motorola-sponsored public seminars.

PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

Defendant Motorola, Inc., hereby answers Plaintiff J-Squared Technologies, Inc.'s ("JST") First Set of Interrogatories as follows:

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. Motorola objects to all requests for production to the extent they are overbroad, vague, ambiguous, unduly burdensome, irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation, or not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Motorola has attempted to provide documents based on a reasonable interpretation of the information requested and has specifically stated objections to particular requests. But to the extent Motorola and JST subsequently differ in their interpretations of what documents were requested, Motorola hereby reserves all rights to object to JST's interpretation on the grounds stated in this general objection.

2. Motorola objects to all requests for production to the extent they ask for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege. If any such protected documents are inadvertently produced in response to JST's requests, the production of such documents shall not constitute a waiver of Motorola's right to assert the protection of any of the above privileges and shall be immediately returned upon discovery thereof.

4. Produce a list of all Motorola employees who worked with or for MECCG in any capacity such that they would establish, evaluate or discharge the manufacturer representatives' performance obligations under the MRAs.

RESPONSE: Motorola objects to this request as not required by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which do not require parties to create documents if none exist, as here. Subject to and without waiving these objections, and after making diligent efforts, Motorola has been unable to locate any responsive documents with the exception of the Declaration of Ms. Julie Blair attached to the Opening Brief of Defendant Motorola, Inc. in Support of its Motion to Transfer this Action to the District of Arizona, or in the Alternative, Motion to Dismiss dated September 23, 2004.

C.A. No. 04-CV-960-SLR

DEFENDANT'S SUPPLEMENTAL RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF J-SQUARED TECHNOLOGIES INC.'S FIRST SET OF REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

Defendant Motorola, Inc., hereby answers Plaintiff J-Squared Technologies, Inc.'s ("JST") First Set of Interrogatories as follows:

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. Motorola objects to all requests for production to the extent they are overbroad, vague, ambiguous, unduly burdensome, irrelevant to the subject matter of this litigation, or not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Motorola has attempted to provide documents based on a reasonable interpretation of the information requested and has specifically stated objections to particular requests. But to the extent Motorola and JST subsequently differ in their interpretations of what documents were requested, Motorola hereby reserves all rights to object to JST's interpretation on the grounds stated in this general objection.

2. Motorola objects to all requests for production to the extent they ask for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege. If any such protected documents are inadvertently produced in response to JST's requests, the production of such documents shall not constitute a waiver of Motorola's right to assert the protection of any of the above privileges and shall be immediately returned upon discovery thereof.

3. Each of the foregoing objections is hereby incorporated in each and every one of the following responses to JST's Request for Production, whether or not it is specifically identified.

RESPONSES TO REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

11. Produce copies of any and all written or recorded statements or summaries of interviews taken of any person with respect to any claim or defense in this litigation, including but not limited to the Plaintiffs or any of Defendant's employees.

RESPONSE: Motorola objects to this request as ambiguous and to the extent it asks for information that is protected by the work product doctrine and the attorney-client privilege. Subject to and without waiving these objections, and after making diligent efforts, Motorola has been unable to locate any responsive documents with the exception of the Declaration of Ms. Julie Blair attached to the Opening Brief of Defendant Motorola, Inc. in Support of its Motion to Transfer this Action to the District of Arizona, or in the Alternative, Motion to Dismiss dated September 23, 2004, and the declaration of Paul Holt dated September 16, 2004, provided herewith.
